Contents
Building upon the students' knowledge of the general fundamentals of moral theology and Christian social sciences, this module offers an insight into topics in applied ethics. It also discusses interdisciplinary work as a method of addressing issues currently faced by society.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have become familiar with key topics and problems in moral theology and social ethics. They will have developed an awareness of the historical development and contexts of relevant literature. Students will be able to critically reflect upon issues currently faced by society from an interdisciplinary point of view and take their own well-founded position on them.
