Contents
Interrelations between religion, politics, and faith in today's multicultural and secular society. Religious pluralism and the dialogue of religions. Analysis of the relevance and power of religious faith and theology to shape society with special attention to religious aspects of education. Discussion of different religious (biblico-theological) understandings of the human person and their political implications for contemporary issues. An introduction to patterns and forms of theological/religious argument relating to problems in ethics.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have become familiar with religion as a socio-anthropological reality. They will be able to identify and critically reflect upon religious phenomena in a socio-cultural context. Students will have become familiar with religious understandings of the human person and will have developed an appreciation of their contribution to the anthropology debate. They will have been introduced to the dialogue of religions.
