Contents
The socio-anthropological impact of religion. Discussion of the relevance religious education has in today's secular society. The cultural relevance of religious phenomena and forms of expression of religion. An introduction to theological arguments in current debates in ethics.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have become familiar with religion and religious phenomena in today's plural and multicultural society. They will have developed a knowledge of the fundamental principles of the theology of religions and will have approached problems in anthropology from a religious point of view. They will be able to critically reflect upon religious phenomena and forms of expression of religion.
