Contents
Exploring selected Old Testament themes and texts, this module provides students seeking specialisation in Old Testament with deeper insights into relevant topics in literary studies, the history of religion, and theology and teaches them exegetical and hermeneutic methods that will enable them to independently investigate issues, adhering to the principles of good scholarly practice.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have developed the ability to interpret Old Testament texts exegetically. They will have a good grounding in the discipline and its methods that will enable them to independently investigate issues. They will have become familiar with the historical, religious, and cultural contexts of the Old Testament texts explored in this course and will be able to interpret them in those contexts.
