Contents
Module components 01-ST-GFDG1-1 and 01-ST-GFDG2-1 acquaint students with essential methods in the discipline and discuss relevant issues relating to christology, the doctrine of God, theological anthropology, and the doctrine of the sacraments. In 01-ST-GFDG1-1, the lecture will be accompanied by an exercise. Module component 01-ST-GRWGa-1 discusses important aspects of the biblico-Christian concept of God, arguments for the existence of God, atheist criticism of religion, the diversity of religious beliefs and world views as a modern phenomenon, theology and the natural sciences, analytic philosophy of language and the possibility of God-talk, the documents Gaudium et Spes and Unsere Hoffnung. The Catholic theology of religions and Nostra Aetate, models of a theology of religion and the pluralistic hypothesis, the history and concepts of God of non-Christian world religions (Indian religions, Buddhism, Judaism, Islam).
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have become familiar with the methods typically used in the discipline. They will also be familiar with the biblical foundations for a systematic reflection upon the issues identified above as well as with the decisions of the tradition of the magisterium of the Church that are relevant to them. In addition, students will have developed the ability to determine the relevance of faith to contemporary issues and to theologially justify it. Students will have been introduced to the God-talk of fundamental theology and will have developed the ability to independently apply what they have learned to contemporary issues. They will have become familiar with the Catholic theology of religions and will be able to independently situate themselves within the current debate.
