Contents
Peking University's School of International Studies and Guang Hua School of Economics are among the leading institutes in international relations and economics in the PRC. Students, during their term at ECLC, attend lectures from a choice in English language courses held by a university teacher of these schools on major aspects of China's international relations, such as China's relations with a major power. Thus the students get familiarized with official Chinese positions on international relations and economics issues.
Intended learning outcomes
Students learn to reflect on the different classroom experience and to deal with official Chinese views on political and economic issues appropriately and respectfully. They gain a better understanding of the academic discourse in China.
