Contents
This module offers an introduction to selected core institutions, practices, concepts and values of the state, society and culture of late imperial China. It discusses continuous as well as innovative or discontinuous elements, and identifies important fields of tension in the political, social and cultural systems. Students can select from a choice of seminars that focus on issues such as local history, gender history, or the history of everyday life. Each topic is viewed through a primary source, besides suitable research literature, with the source text presented in both the original language as well as an English translation. Thus, the course offers an introduction to a range of source types and genres, and to reading and analyzing them.
Intended learning outcomes
Students become familiar with institutions, issues, concepts and developments related to one topic of the late-imperial Chinese state, society and culture. They strengthen their ability to view a problem from various perspectives. They also learn to handle primary sources, approaching them methodically, based on appropriate source critique. Students practice to give oral presentations of their insights and to summarize them in a hand-out.
