Contents
This course will introduce students to deal with theoretical concepts and empirical methods from sub-disciplines of linguistics: linguistic system, linguistic usage and language history. Completion of a work experience with linguistic content.
Intended learning outcomes
In an area of linguistics, linguistic usage or linguistic system, students are able to discuss and/or apply empirical research methods to theoretical approaches on the basis of relevant research literature critically and independently. They are able to compile chosen themes of the field of study independently as well as academically and present the results appropriately (research works, presentations and other methods, production of seminar papers and other textualisation and presentation types). Within a work experience, students practically apply their knowledge to theoretical concepts and empirical methods of linguistics. An independent conceived and implemented research project and its results will be given a lecture appropriately.
