This module introduces students to ethnomusicological study of music-making as social process and cultural phenomenon. The module explores the nature of the relationships between music and society, how sociocultural factors influence music-making, and how music can impact individuals and society. These issues will be examined through case studies of folk/traditional music, popular music, and art music from both Western and non-Western cultures. Topics covered may include, for example, music and identity, music and politics, music and gender, music as commodity, and so on. This module will also provide a basic introduction to the primary research methods in the field of ethnomusicology, including participant observation, interviewing, and fieldwork.
Intended learning outcomes
Upon the successful completion of this module, students should have a basic understanding of how music influences and is influenced by society. They should be able to think critically about the social nature of music-making in their own and other music cultures. They should have a basic understanding of key ethnomusicological research methods.
