Contents
The module consists of two courses that address various contemporary issues. As China's development has been of high intensity for more than thirty years, this module allows for the introduction of up to date topical issues beyond a specific determination of content. The module introduces recent trends in China's society, politics and economy and exemplifies them with specific case studies. Basic knowledge of China's recent history and political structure are prerequisites for this module.
Intended learning outcomes
The module provides students with the competence to develop and analyze recent topical issues relating to China's societal, political and economic development by accessing relevant sources. The competences acquired within this module prepare especially for the writing of the Bachelor thesis.
