Contents

In this module, computer skills in the field of DTP are provided. Professional DTP environments, pixel- and vector-oriented graphic programmes, programmes for the creation of typesets, music notation programmes are dealt with. The creation and editing of sound files are practised in detail. Examples are given of how the various applications interact with the aim of achieving the fastest working process and the highest quality results.

Intended learning outcomes

The student understands to independently find any form of graphic/digital representation necessary for the academic work with the help of the available DTP applications. He/she is able to deal with the use of notation, graphics and audio programmes. The student is able to design his/her own characters (characters/icons) and make them usable for EDP. He/she understands how to work in a team on complex problems.
