Contents
Critical investigation of a topical issue in religious education and reflection of the debate on, and potential solutions to, that issue. Evaluation of the relevance the issue investigated has to teaching in the religious education classroom. The following issues may be investigated: social developments in the area of religion, new approaches to teaching in the religious education classroom, current cultural and religious phenomena, methods and media in the religious education classroom.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have developed the ability to outline a topical issue in religious education from multiple points of view and to take their own well-founded position on that issue. They will be able to recognise the relevance the issue has to teaching in the religious education classroom and to identify implications for classroom practice. Students will be able to independently identify new trends in religious education teaching and to evaluate their relevance. In addition, they will be able to reflect upon the connections between social developments and issues in religious education.
