Contents
The module offers a variety of didactic and methodological approaches which enable the students to meet the heterogeneous learning requirements of pupils with special educational needs in the field of physical and motor development. It elaborates on different special educational working fields and methods of support centres for physical and motor development, inclusive learning facilities and mobile special education services.
Intended learning outcomes
The students become more acquainted with didactic and methodological approaches and are able to discuss and evaluate their relevance for learning in heterogeneous groups. Based on different learning environments, the students can determine which approaches to special educational work are suitable for the learners' prior knowledge. The students know appropriate materials and methods for learning in heterogeneous groups and are able to explain their application in different working fields.
