Contents
Didactics in FSkmE (special-needs schools focusing on physical and motor development) includes different special educational fields of action and instructional contexts. This module discusses which theoretical principles and subject-specific work methods are suitable for the facilitation of learning in such contexts. It includes questions of didactics for different learning requirements of pupils in the field of physical/motor, sensory, linguistic, emotional and cognitive skills.
Intended learning outcomes
The students are able to examine and apply general and specific didactic theories concerning specific educational needs and learning situations. They develop essential competencies in selecting and organising learning methods according to learners' prior knowledge. They are able to compare didactic-methodological aspects and examine their effectiveness for different learning situations in FSkmE (special-needs schools focusing on physical and motor development).
