The press, cinema, radio, TV, and even computers and the internet are often suspected to solely entertain users, thereby undermining a critical, objective and reflective examination of the information given. As a consequence, entertainment is often thought to be a threat to the information function of media. Formerly neglected by most researchers, there has been a rising interest in the scientific understanding of entertainment. This course offers an insight into the current state of entertainment research.
Intended learning outcomes
Students should consolidate their specialist knowledge in the field of mediated entertainment and should thus develop an advanced understanding of the development and logic of research projects in this area.
