Contents
This module aims to provide deeper knowledge about the topics (concepts, theories, empirical analysis and practice) in media communication. Students will choose one out of the four core areas of the degree programme (i. e. media psychology, communication science, computer science in media, communication psychology) and will work in small groups on topic-related projects.
Intended learning outcomes
Students should obtain subject-specific expertise and social skills that are an asset in the workplace. Thus, students do not only have profound subject-specific knowledge in central topics, theories and methods of media communication but are also able to apply this knowledge in practice and use it as a basis for the Master's programme. In addition, students have gained theoretical, empirical and application-oriented skills which are of an asset in job-relevant situations (e. g. in the design of media formats and in central questions regarding the evaluation of media products).
