Contents
The module addresses central positions of education theories while considering their historical and current relevance. The focus lies on ideas and positions which have a great impact on ideas of pedagogical and educational sciences. The focus is on the in-depth reading of a work by an author, on the basis of which central ideas of educational theory are developed and discussed. In a kind of writing workshop, the central elements of scientific work are intensified and such ideas are transferred into one's own writing.
Intended learning outcomes
The students have got profound scientific knowledge of central education theories, they are able to classify them in the pedagogical discourse and discuss these. They understand the importance, development and context of central figures within educational sciences and are able to connect these to current questions and debates. Students also have in-depth knowledge of scientific work and can apply this in their own writing.
