Contents
The module provides an introduction to what characterises professional action in adult and continuing education. This includes a discussion of the terms profession, professionalism and professionalisation. The module also introduces various forms of action in adult and continuing education (e.g. education management, program planning, service development, counselling, quality management). It also deals with the framework conditions and characteristics of staff in adult and continuing education. The seminar is supplemented by a practical exploration.
Intended learning outcomes
Students understand what characterises professional action in adult and continuing education. They are familiar with adult education forms of action and can relate these to professional pedagogical action. They also have an overview of the framework conditions for staff in adult and continuing education.
