| Self- and social competence: The students are able to methodically and critically discuss and evaluate their own and other students' teaching plans and attempts, especially in view of goals and methods of Speech and Language Pathology. By making own teaching attempts to test themselves as teachers, the students have advanced their pedagogical competencies and are able to critically evaluate their own pedagogical actions in education and speech therapy. Methodological competence: The students are able to properly plan, carry out and critically evaluate exemplary teaching units and/or sequences according to technical, subject-didactic, general and special educational criteria, especially criteria of Speech and Language Pathology. Subject and professional competence: The students have advanced knowledge of general didactics, instructional psychology and didactics of Speech and Language Pathology and are able to utilize the acquired therapy and support measures of Speech and Language Pathology in class in order to incorporate therapy into class. |                              |                                                               |
