Contents
Introduction to theological ways of thinking in biblical theology, dogmatics, and church history based on current or central theological and exegetical texts.
Intended learning outcomes
In the area of dogmatics, students will have developed the ability to understand and describe complex theological texts, recognise the inherent problems, communicate their content with other positions, and express their own well-justified point of view. In the area of biblical theology, students will have developed the ability to independently interpret texts exegetically, to situate their contents within the context of current research problems and problems currently faced by society, and to discuss them in an appropriate manner. Students will also have developed an awareness of the historical development of Christianity as well as the changes and transformations it has undergone on the basis of present-day realities.
