Contents
The students collect information on the current state of research and theory of didactics in the context of behavioural disorders and examine this information on the basis of specific goals and questions. Their studies might result in an empirical study, the development of a theory-oriented concept, the development of teaching sequences, an exemplary, evaluation-based application in class, a reader or journal article etc. A cooperation with a practice institution is also possible.
Intended learning outcomes
By closely studying the contents of a didactic project, the students have acquired general and specific knowledge of didactic questions (professional competence) and are able to find own approaches to scientific questions; they are acquainted with possibilities of theoretical and empirical data research (methodological competence). They are able to review complex problems in group work whilst sticking to a self-developed work plan in a target-oriented manner (social competence). They can independently plan and complete the execution of a complex task in a project-oriented manner.
