Contents
Theory-based, practice-oriented and application-based anti-Semitism-critical education for the teaching profession: didactics and pedagogy of an anti-Semitism-critical education, fields of action and prevention strategies.
Intended learning outcomes
After completing the module, students will be able to initiate a reflective and sensitized engagement with anti-Semitism pedagogically, methodically and didactically. For this purpose, they carry out the context-sensitive adaptation of educational paths, critical of anti-Semitism, and generate affective and cognitive approaches in a holistic way in order to prove them in practice. Students recognize anti-Semitism in everyday life and school life and can counter it preventively, proactively and reactively. They establish and deepen an ongoing process of awareness, learning and reflection as a professional habitus. Furthermore, students can transfer the knowledge and skills they have acquired to contexts of digital education / digital literacy.
