Contents
The course provides a broad sweep through concepts and technologies related to IT security: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Theoretical aspects: information-theoretic security, computational security, introduction to cryptography (historical and modern ciphers, hash functions, pseudo-random generators, message authentication codes, public key cryptography) • Network security: protocol security, security of TCP/IP, public key infrastructure, user authentication • Software security: Software vulnerabilities, common programming errors and exploitation techniques, reverse engineering and obfuscation, malware and anti-malware • Platform security: access control models, security policies, operating system security, virtualization, security mechanisms with support in hardware
Intended learning outcomes
Students will be introduced to the main concepts and abstractions of IT security. They learn how to model threats and analyze security of a system critically from the attacker view point. After visiting the lecture students are going to understand the purpose and function of several security technologies, as well as their limitations. The exercises provide some hands-on experience of security flows in software.
