Contents
Information literacy in an academic context: more in-depth discussion of selected topics that were covered in the level one module, e. g. searching subject-specific databases, publishing and information practices in the humanities, subject-specific information retrieval tools, e. g. classifications and thesauri, new web-based information and communication technologies, searching for different types of media (texts, films, images, music, etc.), information search skills for the workplace, copyright and citations, electronic publishing. Some sessions will focus on particular disciplines (wherever possible, on disciplines in the humanities).
Intended learning outcomes
Students have developed a differentiated understanding of the publishing and information practices in their discipline and are familiar with the possibilities offered by electronic publishing. They are able to use electronic tools to search for different types of media. Students are able to work with subject-specific information retrieval tools as well as to use new web-based technologies to share information. They have developed an understanding of the legal framework surrounding publications, information, and communication in an academic context and are able to use information responsibly.
