Contents
In this module, we will address questions about contents and goals of contemporary film education and about film socialisation of children and juveniles in pedagogical contexts. Furthermore, we discuss methods of receptive and productive film work and the development of pedagogical concepts of films.
Intended learning outcomes
After successfully completing this module, the students have detailed knowledge of how to properly use techniques, materials and methods of providing perception- and production-oriented film education at and out of school. They have professional competencies in the four essential fields of film: Film analysis, film usage, film production and presentation as well as films in media society.
