Content and Objectives of the Programme

Graduates have acquired the essential skills to judge critically and clearly any current religious, ecclesiastical, political, and socio-cultural processes according to Christian principles. They understand theological academic literature as a study of various disciplines with an encyclopedic nature. They have obtained an overview of the different disciplines of theology and the applicable methodological basics. Therefore they are able to work in an independent and scientific manner according to theological aspects. They are also in the position to expand the competences they have acquired during their studies independently and appropriately.

Conventions

Unless otherwise stated, courses and assessments will be held in German, assessments will be offered every semester and modules are not creditable for bonus.

Notes

Should there be the option to choose between several methods of assessment, the lecturer will agree with the module coordinator on the method of assessment to be used in the current semester by two weeks after the start of the course at the latest and will communicate this in the customary manner.

Should the module comprise more than one graded assessment, all assessments will be equally weighted, unless otherwise stated below.

Should the assessment comprise several individual assessments, successful completion of the module will require successful completion of all individual assessments.

In accordance with the general regulations governing the degree subject described in this module catalogue:

ASPO2009

associated official publications (FSB (subject-specific provisions)/SFB (list of modules)):

29-Nov-2012 (2012-189)

This module handbook seeks to render, as accurately as possible, the data that is of statutory relevance according to the examination regulations of the degree subject. However, only the FSB (subject-specific provisions) and SFB (list of modules) in their officially published versions shall be legally binding. In the case of doubt, the provisions on, in particular, module assessments specified in the FSB/SFB shall prevail.

A comprehensive introduction to the broad area of human institutional behaviour in politics, the economy, and other forms of social cooperation.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have become familiar with topics in, and aspects of, Christian social sciences. They will have developed the ability to engage in critical scholarly reflection on human behaviour in the world as a form of socio-political responsibility. They will have developed an understanding of how the socio-historical developments of human institutions in cultural systems underlie the present situation. Based on this understanding, students will be able to analyse issues in social ethics, using an ethical hermeneutics.

This module comprises a range of theological seminars offered by the respective Subject Representatives (Fachvertreter). These seminars - some of them may be interdisciplinary - give students the opportunity to discuss topics in theology in more detail. Topics vary and are announced in advance.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the module, students will have developed the ability to approach selected topics in theology, using scholarly methods, and to present their findings in an appropriate manner. They will be able to help create a classroom atmosphere that encourages all students to actively participate in the generation and use of knowledge.

Placement to provide students with insights into a potential area of employment for theologians. Students will write a reflective report on their placement that will serve as the basis for a wrap-up discussion of placement activities, experiences made during the placement as well as the relevance of the theoretical fundamentals acquired at university.
Intended learning outcomes
At the end of the course, students will have gained insights into a potential area of employment for theologians. They will be able to critically reflect upon the personal, theological, and methodological skills they have developed as well as upon the potential areas of employment.
