Course of Studies - Contents and Objectives

The aim of the main subject programme is to impart knowledge of the most important subdisciplines of Indology / South Asia Studies as well as of the methods of Indology / South Asia Studies, i.e. of subject-specific thinking and working. Here the learning of linguistic skills in South Asian languages is an essential element in ensuring the quality of the training. Students develop the abilities which will later enable them to orientate quickly in their task areas in the professional field. The programme furthermore provides the necessary fundamental knowledge to continue with the Master programme which follows on from the Bachelor programme. The courses are divided into Compulsory Choice, Optional Choice and Key Qualification areas (Pflichtbereich, Wahlpflichtbereich and Schlüsselqualifikationen).

The career opportunities for specialists on India will expand substantially in the coming years, as India is attracting increasing political and cultural interest world-wide as an economic power with high growth rates. The importance of India in a globalised world calls for people with good linguistic and regional knowledge, not only in economic and developmental cooperation but also in scientific and cultural organisations.

In the subject area Indology / South Asia Studies, in-depth and also practice-relevant knowledge of language, culture, history and social structures in the South Asia region, especially India, is imparted. This includes studies and practical periods and also intensive language courses in the country in question as well as well-grounded teaching of »intercultural competence« by acknowledged experts on South Asia. At the same time, students acquire academic, social and communicative competences which also open the way to new career opportunities. Examples of these are work with one of the numerous German enterprises operating in India, in the field of cultural management, in aid organisations, or with institutions such as the GTZ. Experience abroad in an Asian country also develops students' personal sense of responsibility and flexibility, equipping them for careers in the most varied fields. For graduates with a correspondingly good degree, the path is open to the next level Master programme, which in turn can lead to a doctorate.

Using appropriate scholarly methods, the student will research and write on a specific problem in indology within the time period specified by ASPO (general academic and examination regulations). If the student is studying for a Bachelor's degree with two majors, he/she may choose an interdisciplinary topic relating to both subjects. The subject matter is to be agreed upon with the supervisor of the thesis or, in the case of the student studying two majors, with the supervisors.
Intended learning outcomes
Students are able to conduct research on a defined topic in indology, adhering to the principles of good scholarly practice, and to appropriately present the results of their work in written form.

We will read and translate simple Sanskrit texts (e. g. epics, narrative texts) but will not identify the grammatical forms of individual words. The main aim of the course is to read larger amounts of text, not to analyse texts in detail.
Intended learning outcomes
Reading larger amounts of text, students will become more experienced with reading Sanskrit and will expand their vocabulary and grammar skills. They will be able to extract meaning from longer text passages within a reasonable period of time.
