for the Subject
Science of Music Education
as a minor in a Bachelor’s degree programme
(60 ECTS credits)

Examination regulations version: 2011
Responsible: Faculty of Arts, Historical, Philological, Cultural and Geographical Studies
Course of Studies - Contents and Objectives

Within their course of studies focusing on fundamentals and application, students of Science of Music Education get familiar with general involvement in scientific knowledge and with the most important methods in the field as well as practice-related skills, thus creating the basis for a professional career in music communication. In this sense, the course of studies provides insight into fundamental issues of Science of Music Education with its sub- and auxiliary disciplines and also into methods of communicating music and enables to qualify for well-grounded work in pedagogical context such as Music Education practice, Music Education Research and areas of Management and Communication. Graduates thereby create strategies and perspectives for present and future challenges. A broad range of courses, oriented on Music Education Studies in applied and in social and cultural contexts, leads to fundamental competences in Music Education theory and practice and provides options for individual profiling.

The Bachelor’s degree programme also fulfils requirements for an internationally recognised degree in the field of Science of Music Education and represents a first qualification for professional work.

As Science of Music Education has to fulfil varied communication tasks, graduates of this programme acquire sensitivity for the many facets of their subject and for constantly changing shapes of professional activity: they are encouraged to seek new paths and to place appropriate accents reflecting their own creativity and conceptual sustainability. Corresponding modules support this aim, illuminating the spectrum of such areas of activity and professional engagement and examining them in greater depth in special courses. The insights thus gained are exercised initially in individually selected and professionally supervised practical activities; at later stages, it is possible to plan independently and carry out one’s own project, aligned on particular personal interests. Documentation and evaluation take the form of a portfolio, which can form the basis of the thesis and which, after certification, contributes to the profiling of the student involved.

The range of possible professional activities extends from early childhood music education, adult education and work with senior citizens to museum pedagogy and exhibition didactics, including concert pedagogics, from music educationally relevant special areas in culture promotion and pedagogics to participation in sectors of music management or in cultural and educational politics. At the same time, the Bachelor programme represents a qualification for entry to a Master's course in Science of Music Education or to other Master's courses with musical, cultural, media-related or pedagogical emphasis.
