Auxiliary Historical Disciplines

as a minor in a Bachelor's degree programme
(60 ECTS credits)

Examination regulations version: 2010
Responsible: Institute of History
Responsible: Faculty of Arts, Historical, Philological, Cultural and Geographical Studies

Course of Studies - Contents and Objectives

The Bachelor programme Auxiliary Historical Disciplines as a secondary subject (60 ECTS) has the following individual focal points:

- specialist historical knowledge from all historical epochs
- additional knowledge of special topics from the history of antiquity and medieval times as well as medieval regional history
- an overview of the fundamental relationships within the auxiliary disciplines for history as well as the points of contact with affiliated disciplines, in particular the study of history, classical philology, earlier German history, archaeology and the history of art
- deeper knowledge of the treatment of original sources, their interpretation and of the methods of the auxiliary disciplines for history
- the ability to communicate ideas and problems in history studies, whether with colleagues with the same background or with a broad, historically-interested public

Graduates are equipped to find orientation flexibly in a wide range of task areas and are therefore suited to numerous career fields. Depending on the main subject chosen, one should mention here in particular the education sector and the communication of cultural knowledge and history in the broadest sense as well as, for example, the areas of tourism, museums, media, publishing and industry.
