The semester at Peking University, which is coordinated, evaluated and accompanied by local teachers, serves to intensify language training as well as to activate linguistic knowledge. The confrontation with a number of other native speakers as teachers as well as the linguistic environment in Beijing serves to place linguistic competence in all fields (spoken language, written expression, reading competence) on a broad basis. A systematic repetition of grammatical phenomena is used to deepen the knowledge. All grammar is intensively repeated and specifically completed from the perspective of Chinese linguistics.

The module consists of at least two courses that provide an overview of the cultural and art historical development of Korea in the period from the 1st century BC to the 19th century. Against the background of significant developments in the field of the prevailing religions and ideologies (mythology, folk religion, Buddhism, Confucianism), important developments in painting, sculpture, architecture as well as arts and crafts are explored. In addition to the focus on individual areas (e.g. literary painting in the Choson dynasty, architecture in the Hanok style), links to other East Asian cultures are also shown.
Intended learning outcomes
Students are able to independently recognise, describe and critically differentiate the covered styles of the different epochs of Korean art. They are able to classify the different developments and objects of Korean cultural development in a well-founded manner and using Korean-language specialist terminology, as well as to critically assess the discourse of differentiating Korean cultural-historical positions from other East Asian cultures.

The module consists of at least two courses that give an overview of the historical development of Korea in the period from the 1st century BC to the present. For the pre-modern era, developments from a nomadic culture to settled agriculture and dynastic administration are dealt with, with special attention to relations with China and Japan. For the development from the 19th century onwards, colonial history, political factionalism, the economic boom after World War II, international relations and Korean soft power or the Korean diaspora are considered.
Students are able to independently classify significant events in Korean history and contemporary history chronologically and thematically. They are able to analyse historical phenomena comparatively and critically and to establish well-founded references to contemporary Korea. They acquire the ability to understand political structures and social processes and to assess their effect on the current situation in Korea. They have a basis for independent and in-depth familiarisation with further-reaching social issues.
