Special Education as an academic discipline; subject and purpose of science and scientificity, scientific methods and systems, central and selected scientific-theoretical theories and methods of knowledge acquisition (especially: empirical-analytical approach, critical rationalism, phenomenology, hermeneutics, critical theory, constructivism and systems theory) as well as principles of scientific work -- also based on specific problems and topics of special educational theory, empirical research and practice.
Intended learning outcomes
The students are able to examine special educational problems in view of different scientific positions and perspectives (professional and methodological competence). They have advanced their basic knowledge of scientific theory on their own or in small groups (social, methodological and professional competence). By applying different learning techniques, the students extend their knowledge of scientific theory and learn to conduct systematic and methodological research; they are able to independently conduct and evaluate small scientific projects (methodological, social and self-competence).

Introduction and evaluation of various pedagogical and psychological theories which are important for Education for People with Physical and Complex Disabilities. Introduction of selected common physical impairments in view of pedagogical aspects and evaluation of their importance for the development and support of physically disabled children and juveniles. The combination of the module components imparts broad knowledge of important pedagogical and psychological questions within Education for People with Physical and Complex Disabilities which is the basis for further theoretical and practical examinations.
Intended learning outcomes
The students acquire basic knowledge of the theories relevant to Education for People with Physical and Complex Disabilities. Furthermore, they acquire profound knowledge of various major and common physical impairments and can estimate their possible effects on the various developmental areas. They can carry out and evaluate analyses of possible individual requirements and deduce possible support measures. By applying basic knowledge, they can identify and classify disorder-specific anomalies.

Basic knowledge of classification, aetiology, pathogenesis and symptomatology of language, speech and communication disorders; basic knowledge of linguistics, provided that it is relevant for the identification, scientific explanation, diagnostics and therapy of disorders.
Intended learning outcomes
Self- and social competence: The students have acquired subject-specific knowledge from various disciplines (mainly speech therapy). They are able to examine the topic by critically evaluating models and theories. Methodological competence: The students analyse scientific texts in a hermeneutic way and critically discuss them in the plenum as well as in groups. Subject and professional competence: The students gain a detailed and interdisciplinary overview of language, speech, and communication disorders which are a topic of Speech and Language Pathology. They particularly acquire professional medical knowledge as a basis for scientific work and action in diagnostic/therapeutic practice.

Intended learning outcomes
Self- and social competence: The students concentrate on studying contents of Speech and Language Pathology and neighbouring disciplines. Methodological competence: The students methodically acquire professional knowledge of Speech and Language Pathology and neighbouring disciplines and critically evaluate these disciplines in view of their application possibilities and requirements in theory and practice. Subject and professional competence: The students acquire indispensable basic knowledge of theory construction in Speech and Language Pathology, which is always interdisciplinary. They especially learn about pronunciation (respiration, phonation, articulation) and forms of dysarthria relevant to Speech and Language Pathology. Based on these principles, the students acquire knowledge of speech disorders in the context of learning disabilities and behavioural abnormalities.
